Final Research Report

Identification
All SSHRC grant holders are required to report on what has been accomplished with the funding provided to them. Final Research Reports or Final Productivity Reports must be submitted within six months of the termination date of the grant. Final Research Reports may be used by SSHRC to promote its funded research and knowledge transfer, to enhance accountability, to demonstrate research results and outcomes of grants, to assess client satisfaction and to provide input for program evaluations.

Final Research Report

Research Findings Summary

Summarize your research results and their general significance in one page or less (300-500 words). Use plain, non-technical language. Describe how the research evolved from the objectives set out in your original project proposal and, where possible, explain the significance to Canadians. SSHRC Public Affairs may wish to use this summary for promotional purposes; they will contact you before doing so.

Our objective was to identify approaches to care, to work organization, to accountability, and to financing and ownership in long-term residential care that offer the most promising practices when the goal is to treat both providers and residents with dignity and respect, to understand care as a relationship and to take differences and equity into account, as well as to identify the contexts, regulations, funding and conditions that allow residents and providers to flourish.

We have been addressing these objectives since the beginning of the project, through quarterly electronic meetings for the four theme groups centered on our areas of research, annual face-to-face full team meetings that included our partners, annual public workshops with partners, policy makers and the public, multiple team seminars and monthly coordinating committee meetings. In all of these, research was developed, reflected on and shared. Publications, presentations, networking, and consultations began in the first year and continued throughout. These included:

- 4 academic books, one of them receiving an award,
- 4 accessible small books, with thousands of copies distributed free in print and online,
- 4 special issues of academic journals,
- 5 doctoral theses,

Over 150 presentations at a wide variety of venues from union halls, nursing homes, libraries and church basements to government policy meetings and academic conferences,

Over 75 journal articles, one of them receiving an award,

Multiple meetings with nursing homes, policy organizations, media and community groups,
Special reports for partners.

All these various forms of knowledge sharing identified promising practices, including promising practices for conducting international, interdisciplinary teamwork and for a new research methodology (see Pat Armstrong and Ruth Lowndes, Creative Teamwork; Developing Rapid-Site Switching Ethnography, New York: Oxford University Press, 2018).

In addition to spawning multiple research projects, new networks and even a Norwegian research centre, we have influenced the physical, social and organizational structure of numerous nursing homes from Yellowknife to Bergen to Toronto and prompted many public debates. Our contention that the conditions of work are the conditions of care has been taken up by a wide variety of organizations and policy makers, as has our insistence on promising practices that take context, intersectionality and the full range of participants in nursing homes into account. We helped to make clothing, laundry and food central to strategies for change.

The research prompted many media requests for team members to comment as experts on seniors and long-term care, and to be interviewed for radio programs and for articles appearing in newspapers and online. A newspaper article of particular note was one in the Toronto Star that resulted from an interview with the Principal Investigator following the publication of the project's first accessible small book Promising Practices in Long-term Care: Ideas Worth Sharing. This article generated a large amount of feedback from the long-term care community. Media attention also prompted invitations related to policy change, such as an appearance before the House of Commons Standing Committee on Health and a presentation to the Rideau Club.

Success/Hindrance Factors

Indicate whether the following factors contributed or caused difficulties in achieving your research.

Success Factors - Indicate and rank up to 3 factors that contributed most to the success of your research.

Rank	Factor
1	Team collaboration
2	Partner involvement
3	SSHRC Funding

List any additional factors that facilitated your research.

Complementary funding

Hindrance Factors - Indicate and rank up to 3 factors that most hindered your research.

Rank	Factor
1	Ethics approval
2	Not applicable
3	Not applicable

List any additional difficulties you confronted in your research.

As well as with ethics approval at several universities, we had difficulties with ethics approval at some research sites.

Final Research Report

Impacts
Assess - as well as you can under present circumstances - the current and/or potential impacts of the research on which you are reporting. Answer the questions below using the response scale provided.
In which one of the following areas will your research have the most impact?	Development of policies and programs
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of culture (broadly understood), e.g., of literature, art, history, anthropology, cultural criticism, etc.?	Possibly
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of social issues and social development?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on our understanding of economic development, policies or practices?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on public policy debate?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on teaching (e.g., development of new courses) or professional practice?	Possibly
Will your research have an impact on the development of new research methodologies?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact in other disciplines?	Definitely
Will your research have an impact on international collaboration?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to an academic audience?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to decision-makers in the public, private and not-for-profit sectors?	Definitely
Have your research findings been disseminated to the general public?	Definitely
Have your research findings for this project contributed to – or will it contribute to – enhancing accessible research infrastructure (e.g., collections of materials, Web sites, data bases, networks, etc.)?	Definitely
Please add any further comments or examples on current impacts of the research on which you are reporting.
Our published report relating our research to COVID-19 is widely circulated and the recommendations discussed in the media, community, and policy circles. Toronto is implementing our team's 2019 consultation recommendations through a 1-year pilot project in a home, followed by full implementation over 6 years in their 10 homes. Changes include a focus on care relationships, increased staffing.
